TWINS BOTHER A PROCESS SERVER.

Watkins Brothers Look So Much Alike Both Have Been Ordered to Appear in Court to Tell Which Is Which.

A process-server has been unable to distinguish between Joseph C. and Lucius Watkins, twins, who are clerks in the office of the New York Building Bank Loan Company, No. 111 Fifth avenue.

On the request of attorneys for Mrs. Anna E. Kilder, who wishes to foreclose on a mortgage given by them, Justice Gaynor, of the Supreme court, Brooklyn, ordered the two young men to-day to appear before him and tell which was which.

The process-server said that he had served first one and then another, as he believed, but that when produced in court each, of the same one, he didn't know which, said that it was his brother who had been served.

The server said that the twins looked so much like each other that he could not tell them apart, and that perhaps he had been serving the same one all the time. He wanted the Supreme court to assist him in serving both. The court said both will be lined up before Justice Gaynor, and if possible the process-server will have them tagged so that he will know which is which and which has been served and which is yet to be served.

Contagious Blood Poison

Is the name sometimes given to what is generally known as the BAD DISEASE. It is not confined to dens of vice or the lower classes. The purest and best people are often infected with this awful malady through handling the clothing, drinking from the same vessels, using the same toilet articles, or otherwise coming in contact with persons who have contracted it. It begins usually with a little blister or sore, then swelling in the groins, a red eruption breaks out on the body, ulcers appear in the mouth, the throat becomes tender and raw, the hair, eye brows and lashes fall out; the blood becoming more contaminated, copper colored spots and pustular eruptions appear upon different parts of the body, and the poison even enters the worst forms. It is a perfect antidote for the powerful virus that pollutes the blood and penetrates to all parts of the system. Unless you get this poison out of your blood it will ruin you, bring disgrace and disease upon your children, for it can be transmitted from parent to child. S. S. S. contains no mercury or potash, but is guaranteed strictly vegetable. Write for our free home treatment book and learn all about Contagious Blood Poison. If you want medical advice give us a history of your case, and our physicians will furnish all the information you wish without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.
